TWO MINUTE TRAINING

SUBJECT:

'Twas the Night before Christmas – The Twenty-Fifth Annual Edition

'Twas the night before Christmas, and throughout the site,
No waste shipments were moving, no working this night.
It's December 24th, and that means to me,
A "Two Minute Training", on this Christmas Eve.

An original topic, to have would be nice,
To distribute to all, as a training device.
It's a yearly event, of which I persist,
To email by Christmas, as my reader's insist.

When outside my window, I heard an odd sound,
I had to get up, and check all around.
I peeked out the window, the snow shining white,
I opened the door, and turned on the light.

When what to my wondering eyes should appear,
But a miniature elf and eight tiny reindeer.
With a little old driver, so lively and quick.
I was more than quite sure, that it must be St. Nick.

His eyes how they twinkled, his dimples how merry,
His cheeks were like roses, his nose like a cherry.
He sounded familiar, I said to myself,
"This must be Santa, Santa the elf!"

Santa was wondering, about waste generation.
I said, "I can answer, and provide a citation."
He said, "At the Pole, I have this workshop,
Where presents are made, year-round and nonstop."

His worry was the waste, to dispose or recycle.
His Waste Elf was clueless, the Waste Elf named Michael.
I said, "I can help you, help I can render.
You just need an outlet, a recycle vendor."

"We need to identify, the wastes and its contents.
Based on your toys, its old paints and solvents.
These can be recycled, it's easy to do.
Just call the vendor; they'll work for you!"

Santa could recycle, his workshop squeaky clean.
Even with a red suit, Santa can be green!
He liked the idea, and I won't be a surprised,
If by this time at Christmas, his waste is minimized!"

With his green attitude, he hopped to his sleigh,
Taking off safely; up, up and away.
Turning to give, one last quick summation,
"Recycling makes sense, and it is conservation!"

Disposal versus recycling, Santa understood,
Recycling is better, it is always good.
And as he flew away, I heard a distant cheer,
"Merry Christmas to all, and a Happy New Year!!"
