Subject: HAVE A SAFE AND HAPPY FOURTH OF JULY

This coming Saturday is the Fourth of July, a time to celebrate independence, freedom and the founding of our great country. Of course, this year's celebrations will be a little different. The parades, picnics in the park and community fireworks shows will be replaced with more at-home celebrations to reduce health risks related to COVID.

Whatever the celebration looks like for you this year, please be mindful of CHPRC's commitment to Safety 24/7. From fireworks to face coverings and sunscreen to social distancing, exhibit the safety leadership we are known for at work as we celebrate at home.

As we wind down a shortened work week, beware of distractions as many workplace injuries occur immediately before a holiday weekend. Stay focused, and watch out for your safety and the safety of those around you.

Enjoy your time away from work, but please celebrate safely and encourage those around you to do the same. After the break, let's refocus ourselves on our Hanford mission, ready to meet the challenges before us as a team.

Have a happy Fourth of July!
